

To communicate efficiently to the market, employees or other stakeholders, webcasting - or live and interactive broadcasting over the internet, will be the exceptional method. Webcasts are used extensively for investor relations to present quarterly or annual reports and inform customers, employees and investors about news and events in a company.

WebcastOnline features and functionality

In addition it may also be used for covering Annual- and General-Meetings or other important meetings, happenings or events. Utilizing the full power of our webcast software, we deliver your webcast live on the internet - and provide you with an offline, on-demand version of the webcast shortly after the broadcast has ended. Webcasts can be a powerful way of showcasing a company and its profile, morals, visions and environmental profile, to name a few.

Maritime Colours offers counselling for webcast and TV production, production of web-films and traditional commercials, event coverage on location, Corporate TV production (both on location, and in studio) and media training.
